KILLED BY NEGRO ON STEAMER FOWLER

Edward Lannon Mortally Wounded at New Liberty, Ill., By Charles Rachel

NEGRO HAS NOT BEEN CAPTURED

Ed Lannon, a mate on the steamer, Joe Fowler, was shot and mortally wounded by a negro rouster, named Charles Rachel, Monday evening at New Liberty, Ill.

On Sunday evening previous to the shooting, Lannon and Rachel had a few words. Lannon had not given it a thought, but the negro brooded over the affair; when the boat landed at Paducah, he went up into the city and purchased a pistol.

He waited until arriving at the first Illinois landing before seizing the opportunity for revenge. After the freight had been taken on at New Liberty the mate and rouster were boarding last when Rachel drew his revolver and shot Lannon five times, the balls piercing his body. He fell and was carried on the boat and taken to Smithland the next landing, where he was examined by Dr. Adams, who said an operation would have to be performed. The boat then started for Paducah as rapidly as possible, he was removed to Riverside Hospital where an operation was performed. He died at twelve o'clock Tuesday.

The officers of Livingston county and Massac county, Ill., (where the negro escaped) are doing all they can to capture the assassin. It is thought the negro will be tried in Kentucky because he was hid in waiting for Illinois to be reached before assassinating the mate.

Lannon's body was removed to Nance's undertaking establishment to remain until his mother and brother arrive from Nashville.

Supt. John R. Steinman, of the Ada Florence Mine is not content to let well enough alone, last week he installed a large duplex Worthington pump in order to handle any water he may encounter in sinking his 14ft. shaft another 100 feet deeper and will employ hands both night and day to gain that depth as quickly as possible.

W. S. Lowery at the Watson Mine near New Salem with four men underground is making a daily output of 15 tons of spar per shift. At the 70 foot level he has 14 feet of solid ore. This mine is owned by Doctor Pope, of Louisville, who will at once install a modern steam sinking plant, then it will be no trouble to handle this present output.

(10)

The Leona Mine near Glendale has the largest vein of high grade ore in the district, measuring 22 feet in width. This property is owned by Marion parties, who organized themselves into a company last week, with J. M. Persona as general manager.

RUMORS OF NEW BRIDGE

Company Backed By Eastern Capital
to Span Ohio at Evansville

Henderson, Ky., Dec. 18.—There is a rumor in railroad circles here and at Evansville, Ind., to the effect that a company with ample capital will build a railroad bridge across the river a few miles above Evansville to be used by a new railroad company and traction lines. It is said that eastern capitalists are back of the company and that the Illinois Central railroad will use the bridge and have an interest in the company. The Illinois Central now send their trains across the Ohio river on the bridge of the Louisville & Nashville railroad at this place. A company is now being formed headed by T. Bethel, of this city, to build a traction line from Evansville to this city and on to Uniontown, Ky. It is the intention of the company to use the proposed new bridge. It is almost a settled fact that the proposed C. L. & E. road will build in the near future and the road will want an outlet to the south. The road will extend from Chicago through Indianapolis and have terminals at Evansville. It is said the road will later be extended to Owensboro, Ky., and that the bridge about to be built will also be used by this company. The bridge will be a modern structure and will cost over $1,000,000.

Tobacco Tidings From Far and Near

The tobacco situation is about the same as last week. Things do not look good for the man with his tobacco unsold and undelivered. But the end is not yet. Some of our tobacco raisers took a good hold on times much pulled forelock and hustled out elsewhere and sold their crops. One of our biggest and best farmers has sold his tobacco crop to Mr. A. B. Jarvis to be delivered to him in Henderson, Ky. He will deliver Christmas week. Judge J. P. Pierce came back from Morganfield Wednesday, where he had finished delivering his crop. He reports a sale at 8, 7, 2. He stated that it averaged about $6.50 after deducting the freight charges.

On Wednesday of this week quite a number of wagons of Crittenden county tobacco were observed on the road to Morganfield. Quite a number of farmers went over with samples with a view of disposing of their crops.

The local buyers are not doing anything. There is nothing for them to do. It seems like the move is on some one else.

The Princeton outrage is still dark. No one held to account. Great things were expected and promised by the fire marshal, Mott Ayers. It was even darkly hinted that he had enlisted the aid of the Federal authorities but nothing doing yet.

Mr. Ed Rice wants to sell all he has and go West. Mr. John Orr says he will have to leave Princeton and try some other climate. We have no doubt but that the three factories owned here in Marion and Vevie could be bought at a bargain right now. Tobacco insurance in Caldwell, Lyon, Crittenden and Livingston counties is nearly a thing of the past. Tobacco men cannot and will not do business without insurance. If they cannot borrow money on tobacco for that reason neither can the Associations and so there you are. It is a wise man that can see the end.

It is surprising how the value of a commodity can increase in a comparatively short time. A few days ago tobacco stems could be had for the asking, but today it is quite another proposition and stems are commanding good prices. Arrangements have been made by the Stemming District Tobacco Association of Kentucky whereby they will sell to the Southern Product Company all their stems at a price of $20.06 per ton, or a fraction over $1 per 100 pounds. This is a remarkable figure when one stops to consider that the price in past years for stems was from $3 to $16 per ton and that very seldom was the latter figure obtained.

Mr. W. B. Kennedy, the tobacco broker, has returned from an extensive European trip in the interest of his tobacco business, and incidentally in the interest of this section of the tobacco country. Mr. Kennedy visited

Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, Germany Holland and Belgium. He said he found the tobacco business generally, in flourishing condition, but that the Princeton incident disturbed foreign plans greatly, they having a feeling of disgust more than anything else, over the occurrence. If such occurrences are to be always imminent, the foreign trade will be too uncertain to expand as it would under normal conditions.

AMONG OUR CHURCHES

Rev. J. H. Butler filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

His subject in the morning was "The Glorious Gospel of the Blessed God." The text was taken from First Timothy 1-11, "According to the Glorious Gospel of the Blessed God which was committed to my trust."

The subject was divided into the following thoughts: 1st what is meant by the gospel; 2nd why called the glorious gospel; 3rd in what its glory consisted.

In the evening his subject was: "Shepherd's Psalm," using as his text the twenty third Psalm "1st The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want. 2nd He maketh me to lie down in green pastures, he leadeth me beside still waters. 3rd He restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the path of righteousness for his name's sake. 4th Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff comfort me. 5th Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over. 6th Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Rev. J. F. Price preached at the C. P. Church last Sunday morning on the theme, "Faithfulness and its Reward." Text:—Matt. 1-10. The congregation was pleased with a feeling of responsibility in religious work and went away with a glow of enthusiasm in their hearts for Christ.

Celebrates His Ninetieth Birthday

Uncle Harvey Travis was born Dec. 5, 1819, he was therefore ninety years old last Wednesday, December 5. He was converted to God August 14, 1836. He joined the Cumberland Presbyterian church a few days later and has been loyal to that church since. In these later years he has overcome all his besetting sins, his worst being an appetite for strong drink, this he discarded over two years ago and has turned his back on it forever. His next great besetment was an awful temper, he says it seemed some times he would get so mad "his hair would almost curl." That is all over now. He says he has but one thing to regret and that was resisting a call to preach the glad tidings of great joy to the children of men or in other words he failed to preach the holy gospel of God. The Lord gave him a talent of singing, the talent to pray, the talent to lead penitents to God, when at the altar, but his part of the ministry is left undone and no one can do the work God assigned him to do. He said, "Oh brother, how I do regret this failure."

He made up his mind to join the Masonic order, on the 31 of August 1839 he rode sixteen miles on horseback to have his petition drawn up by Dr. Gilliam, it carried to Princeton lodge, where it was accepted and he was made a Mason in that lodge. At that time he only knew of four Masons in Crittenden County, they were: Dr. Gilliam, Billie Asher, Billie Hill and Dr. Franklin.

He is the father of eight boys and one girl by his first wife and five boys and four girls by his second wife. Uncle Harvey told the writer many things that happened when he was young. One was when he went to get his license to marry his first wife he spent the night with Uncle John Marvel. There were some objections to his first marriage. When he got on his horse the morning after the wedding with his wife behind, he said to her, "I'll make you a living" and she said "I'll help you." He said she did. "She did the house work, carded and spun six cuts a day. We both carded and spun at night, doing two cuts before retiring and in this way I got my first suit of clothes."

He spoke of remembering the first brick house built in Weston. He told many other interesting things of his earlier days.

It has been the writer's privilege to attend a number of the Travis reunions. The dinners are always fine. The chicken, ham, pickles, pies, cake in fact everything good to eat and the manner in which everything was prepared was just simply delicious.

Uncle Harvey is the father of thirteen children, forty-four grandchildren and 101 great grandchildren, most of them were present at the last reunion Dec. 5, 1906.

SIDELIGHTS FROM THE FOOT HILLS OF MIDDLE TENNESSEE

By Old Timer

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men."

A symposium of what some of the RECORD readers would do during the Christmas festival if they were Saint Nicholas:

Horace H. Sayre: "I would change things around so that we would have snow and ice in the summer time when it's hot, rather than at this season when nobody wants either."

Mayor Blue: "It's a pretty large question to answer off hand and I would prefer to wait until I could look up the authorities. I think, however, from my recollection of the subject that I would follow the precedents and give the whole world a real old fashioned, jolly, good time."

Congressman James: "I would give every straight democrat a first class office and as little work as possible."

Judge Travis: "I would increase the pensions at least 160 per cent. and some of us ought to have more."

Huston Orme: "I would just give everybody everything they wanted."

Jim Henry: "I would give myself back the voice I lost hurrahing for Cleveland—the old fool."

John Wilson: "I would certainly give those Evansville laundries 90 years in the Pen."

William Denwidde Baird: "If I were Santa Claus I would build a palace of one great opalescent pearl with diamond windows and golden doors and— William was recently married."

Tom Yandell: "Give them all a good dinner, a new suit of clothes and put their money in the Marion bank."

Copher: "Give everybody sixteen ounces to the pound, four quarts to the gallon and a thicker slice of ham in the sandwiches."

Assistant Cashier Hubbard: "I would have everybody come to prayer meeting. (That would be jolly)"

Press Maxwell: "Make everybody a little happier, a little truer, make the Christ child a reality in every home, make of Christmas a real birthday of the world's Savior."

Johnson Crider: "I don't think I would care to be Santa Claus and then I haven't the time, I'm very busy. We're shipping zinc."

Captain Haase: "I would make of the Salem valley one great lake of egg-nogg with bridges of fruit cake every twenty feet and I would call all of the inhabitants of Crittenden and Livingston around the lake and present them with a cut glass bowl and a silver cake knife and say there it is, help yourselves."

Cashier Hayward, of the Farmers Bank: "I don't have to be Saint Nicholas to do things. I can do things myself."

George Roberts: "I would build houses that wouldn't take an entire coal mine every day or two to keep the temperature up to the freezing point. I tell you these houses are darned cold."

Dude Pierce: "There's nothing in life that I care for now, I'm a blighted being. Saint Nicholas even cannot bring her back, she's married."

Uncle Elijah McCain: "Me Santy Claus huhl! I'll war. A great big poopum, sweet potatoes an gravy, an gravy and more gravy. I specole Santy would clare forgit 'bout his deer animals, if I war he I'm suah he would. Go 'way white man, me Santy Claus—a black Santy, clare to goodness if I war suah nuff. Santy I'd do the thing

RECORD:

Dear Readers:—The present year is fast passing into the Shadowland, a few more days and 1906 will have ceased. Have we made any part of your life pleasanter, happier or better? We have told you of our joys and our sorrows, our comings and our goings fifty-two times have we come to you with the stories of our home life, with the voices of your absent sons and daughters who ask us to tell you of their well doing and well being. We take pleasure in this, it is our part in life and we want to do it well and vary completely. We, the RECORD, want to be a very near and dear friend, almost kinfolk. We desire most of all to receive a hearty welcome and a pleasant look as we meet you each week and tell you of a good joke over the dinner or as the shadows gather to tell you of more serious things. We want to know you better, to laugh with your pleasures and to sympathize in your troubles and difficulties. You really scarcely know us yet. Shall we continue to call on you, we want to do so. Will you send us an invitation? It is so easy to do, just your address and one dollar and we are sure then of seeing you every week in the new year and we are trying hard to make each succeeding visit just the best yet. Of course you have our best wishes and many, many of them, many merry Christmas's and a whole heap of happy happier, happiest New Years and we somehow, feel sure of receiving that invitation."

THE RECORD.

Harry Haynes: "You better see Clem about this, he has it right at his fingers ends."

Dr. T. Atchison Frazer: "I would give everybody a package of wax and a bottle of Coca Cola."

Clem Nunn: "Yes, Harry was saying something about this. You better see him, he knows; he will fix it all right. I am just going out to the Hodge mine."

Wm Yandell: "I would stop this mining business there's nothing in it."

Mr. Persons: "I would form a mining company every week and make myself general manager."

Black Hawk: "I would build another jail and keep Cannon in it always."

Mr. Deboe: "I would make it impossible to elect a Democrat to an office."

Joe Bourland: "Let's see, to print them in three colors would cost more than in one, you see it would take three impressions. I will study on it."

Mr. Boston: "I heard about this and aimed to get up something, but you see Paris has left me and he was the Santa Claus of the firm."

Bob Sayre: Gee! if I were Santa Claus, you bet I'd do a lot. I'd do so much that I'd forget and do it all over again. I'd buy mudder, why I'd buy mudder the whole world."

Major Clement: "I would sink that shaft down far enough to reach through and grab a Chinaman by the head."

John Moore: "I would have a breed of chickens that were Lulus, laying hourly and hatching their eggs next morning."

Levi Cook: "I agree with John Moore."

Judson Bennett: Let joy be unconfined. Let's dance and be happy for tomorrow we may have to go to Tolu."

Judge Pierce: "I would stop people telling about that collar button."

Bob Haynes: "I believe with Judge Pierce that people talk too much. Now when I was up a tree, but that's another story."

Mr. McElroy: "I am fully in accord with Brother Pierce and Brother Haynes. I was never up a tree, but—"

Dave Kevil: "Those are my sentiments."

Dentist Nunn: "And mine."

Cort Pierce: "Me too."

Bill Clifton: "Same here."

Venner, the depot agent: "If I were Santa Claus I would have trains on time, freight paid in advance, all salaries increased and Christmas goods expressed free."

Gustava Haynes: "I would give all the school children a dozen letters each before they get to the post office."

Jim Freeman: "I would give every feller in Crittenden county a rural route job and make Uncle Sam pay them $300 per month."

Dr. R. L. Moore: "I would give the people of Marion a tobacco stemmyer a mile long and a mile wide, built fire proof and compel all the tobacco growers in fifty miles to haul their crops here. Why yes I could manage it."

A. H. Cardin: "I would give every family a good jersey cow and if she came from my farm she would be a good one too."

The Legend of the Four Leaf Clover

By Rustic

Where the mountain bathes its shadow In the deep lake's limpid blue, And the glory of its golden crown Is daily wrought anew; When the whisper of the white birch Is borne upon the wind, The close-cropped greenward now is trod

By few of mortal kind. For the quiet old monastery, With its gables and its dome, Hath fallen into sad decay.

The wild fowl make their home 'Mid its carved and fluted columns On the trembling alter-airs.

And the night bird's solemn monologue Is the only sound of prayer.

Yet the fragrance of its great estate Clings around the ruins still.

And the stream that fed the fountain Or turned the old monk's mill For the pressure of the red grape juice Is blessed in its way.

And the rare traveler wets his brow From the holy spring today.

On its margin blooms the clover, And the humming of the bee Is mingled with the memory Of ancient legendry.

'Twas a friar, worn and bent with years That passed the path alone, When, startled by the sound of soba—

A broken hearted moan— He drew the branches wide apart, And kneeling on the sod

Was a wildly weeping maiden, Crying, "Mary blest of God, Oh, save my lover! He is all The Lord I care to know."

The worthy priest flushed red with pain; "Cease child! or whisper low Thy blasphemous confession.

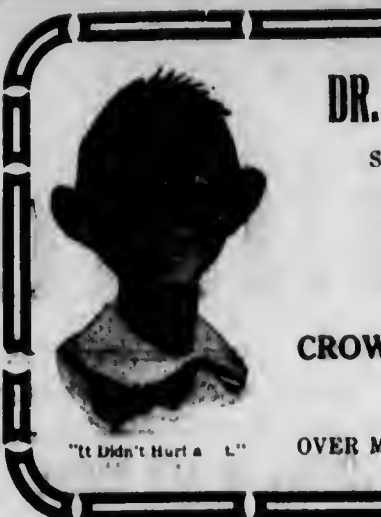

Know'st not the great decree— That only those that live again Who revere the Trinity?

Behold!—he stooped to pluck a spray With the triple leaves of green,— "Here is the mark that God hath set

For all to see, I ween,— The Father, Son and Holy Ghost By Nature's fingers traced

Our great Creator never deigned That one should be displaced For mortal image. Go thy way, And bow before your shrine

In heartfelt penitence confess, And worldly love resign."

As the deer that hears the stalker's tread

Leaps from its hidden lair, So lightly bounded to her feet The object of his care.

She, too, had plucked a clover stem, Still glistening with the dew. But the good friar was compelled To count the leaves anew.

While the sweet voice of the maiden Told off the four apart.

"O holy Father, 'tis the Lord Who made the human heart; And here is shined his signal That those elect shall be

Who hold their true love firmly bound With the blessed Trinity. No soul is white that knows the fear Of perfect love's control; It cannot be to worship part Is not to praise the whole."

Letter from Silver Heights

Mr. Editor, It is now that we have to deal with the third party. In the outset I would say to Mr. E. Jeffrey

Travis that he is not the woman referred to in the article or discussion mentioned. Neither do I think he is the father of those children. If he is, Mr. C. E. Grady failed to credit him as a full blooded human. But we have no doubt but that you could make them what you are, or even what you wanted them to be. But the greatest difference between myself and Mr. Grady and probably you, is that I believe in both schools and you seem to believe mainly in one. I believe as much in the common or day school as you or any one else, but I am forced to believe that I am stronger in the faith of the Sunday school than anyone who would intimate the position from which this discussion had its origin. I am sorry it came up about a woman instead of a man, but I am not to blame for that, and this is one reason why I protested in the first place in our S. S. rally at

Weston, when I said that ignorance was bliss, I had reference to the elusion that Mr. Grady's science that had discovered the kinship between the poor unfortunate woman and the hog. And I still say, it is bliss, it is bliss; but I am going to look for a mighty wave of reform to break out in the neighbor of Stargis; it may also effect the high school further east.

Obituary

Emmet Williams was born Aug. 5th, 1903, and died Nov. 25, 1904. He was sick only a short time and his death was a great shock to the people. He was the only child of Martin and Florence Williams, and was the pride and joy of their hearts. Weep not dear father and mother, grandfather and aunt Emma, for he is only waiting on the other shore. He was laid peacefully to rest in the Mt. Zion cemetery. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away." We must be submissive to His will.

Dear little Emmett has gone for awhile, Oh, we will miss his sweet face with its smile;

His chair at the table is vacant, For he has passed away To a world where all is happiness And a world of endless day.

It seems so hard to part with Emmet, When he was so dear to us all; But weep not dear mother and father, For it was the Saviour's call.

He needed him to shine in the bright Heaven so far;

Where is happy without a thought of an earthly care.

So from His garden of flowers, He plucked this gem so rare And Heaven has gained a jewel By Emmet's sweet presence there;

And when my work is ended, And life on earth no more Dear Emmet be ready to meet me On the other shore.

Banks

A New York bank which keeps open night and day has lately installed for the convenience of its customers a burglar proof automobile. This vehicle is bullet proof and carries a large safe bolted to the running gear and when stopped, cannot be stopped by the driver not in possession of the secret mechanism.

This machine makes trips to the ticket sellers offices of all the large theatres and also to the restaurants. When the machine arrives at the door he places his money in a small steel box which is locked into a compartment.

The customer has one key and the bank teller the other. If the automobile is attacked and stopped by robbers they cannot cart it off and they cannot get the safe loose from the machine.

Sometime ago a bank in New York declared a 900 per cent. dividend and in the same meeting also declared a semi-annual dividend of 50 per cent.

His Farewell Sermon

Eld. J. L. Parls will preach his farewell sermon to the people at Pleasant Hill next Sunday. He expects to leave for Missouri Dec. 26, where he has been called to the care of several churches. The RECORD believes it is expressing the sentiments of the people in general when it says we regret to give Brother Parls up, but we feel that the Lord is directing him, and we can only say we believe our loss will be gain to the people with whom he will be associated.

TRIPPLE CAPACITIES

A Young Man's Message to Young Men for Christmas Thoughts

The ordinary, and the extra ordinary individual has at least three capacities and these go to make up success or failure. These three points to his compass are an endowment which the Creator clothed man with, but often one or the other is sadly warped. The jangling of the guinea helps the hurt that honor feels. Often times self alternates with principle in pondering after prosperity. The flower of ambition is sometimes woefully dwarfed by the one sided emery turned on it. The pressure is not equally balanced. Then, too, there is a very false standard for success in some minds. Mentality, measures and money are the cardinal points of to many life compasses, more often the two later predomination. The right standard should be manhood, mind, money. Money elugs two eggs in the mind of progress with its dwarf mind, dwarf manhood, that the silver shekel may be idealized. He is an emery to himself and his example is worse than an epidemic, who proffers principle for pelf. There's something distressingly, glaringly wrong in the background.

"I had to lie like slaty to get the cash" observed a young man in a dry goods store, was there much soul solace in the lying? Has it come to be an American principle that "lying gets the cash" or that it takes "lying" to gain the intended end? Lying and push, are they identical. Cast down the anchor, young man, and getting your longitude and latitude, see if you can afford this sort of business. Is character nothing? Is principle naught? I note your own best, self to the surface and let self and self chat together, chat seriously, not gossipy, and self gazing squarely into the eyes of self ask, whether you can afford it.

The first of the three capacities with which we are endowed is the earning capacity. The word earn has a charm about it which a healthy individual cannot resist. Earn? Why, yes, we earn our bread. The ellet, "by the sweat of thy face shalt thy earn bread" is just, is a blessing to mankind in the present state. What we put into a thing we get out, spare, sowing, spare harvest, luxury and lavish are the judgments laborers, the idler never. Earn all you can, is not that enticing, thrilling, to the youth who is filled with life and energy? But how? Ah! now I fear we can touch a tender tendon. Haphazard, underhauled, overhauled, when the other fellow's back is toward you that is the main spring of gain. Such gain gobbles up the soul-glory. Inacuspious gains ground and manhood. As a man soweth; soweth, avarice, greed, unfairness in his young manhood, so also shall he reap, in old manhood, avarice intensified, greed increased at two-fold ratio, unfairness perfected. Like begets like, but the increase, there's the point. Had you thought that what we stop to gain unfairly is that price we labeled our very selves with? A dime unfairly gained is a ten dollar depreciation in character if it were possible to use a dollar and rent scale.

A second capacity is the proper, judicious, legitimate investment of the earnings. Money with some individuals is like sand in the hands of a child—sifts between his fingers. Newell Dwight Hillis has entitled one of his books, "An Investment of Influence."

A study of the book will show that there are other investments beside "stocks and bonds" an investment in the never "watered" stock of solid, substantial character. The characterless man has no counsel at the chancery of judicious competition. A proper investment of money is needful, a proper investment of character is absolutely necessary. "He said it and I can depend upon his word." Is not that a eulogy worth an investment in character? The third capacity is to enjoy the fruits of well directed, well earned labor. How few know how to enjoy! Enjoyment is the price of endeavor, yea of intense labor. St. Paul says, "Rejoice, and again I say, rejoice." Money's intrinsic value is that which equalizes itself in the legal tender of a happy life, and a happy life means a full life—full of love, kind deeds and noble aspirations. The parsimonious life is narrowed down until a dollar will shut out the sunshine of generosity. I do not for a moment disparage the use, the benefit, the necessity of money, but there are other things. But the way sacred capital is invested is a splendid index to character. Wants can be few and should be simply and sufficient. Life itself is a complex problem and it is often a difficult undertaking to make it yield its fullest fruitage of happiness.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and so prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets—makes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasantly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure. If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Bruse your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

SUBSCRIPTION ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

Entered as second-class matter July 15, 1904, at the postoffice at Marion, Ky., under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

NOTICE! In writing to have your address changed always give the postoffice to which your paper is going as well as the postoffice to which you wish it sent.

While our columns are always open for the discussion of any relevant subject, we do not necessarily endorse the opinions of contributors. Anonymous letters will not be noticed; therefore correspondents will please give their names—not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

FRIDAY, DEC. 21, 1906.

There will be no issue of the RECORD next week. The force at the mechanical end of the paper will rest and take a week off. The continual grind all year long of setting up and throwing in so much nonsense mixed with so little sense, seems to have a very depressing effect upon the printers and thus it has been a custom among their generations to stop the press wheels one week in a year. Next week is the week. The RECORD wishes all its readers a happy New Year.

A bill has been before Congress this last week to increase salaries. The salary of a Congressman is $5000 per year. This bill provided for an increase to $7500. O. N. James voted against this bill.

Shall we see you next year. If so come across.

A merry Christmas and happy New year.

It snowed! cried the schoolboy.

Notice?

The committeemen of the Society of Equity, or the Stemming District Tobacco Association of Crittenden county, are invited to meet with the Caldwell county committeemen at Fredonia, Ky., December 27th, 1906.

SHOT TO DEATH

A Buck Hare Near Silver Heights By R. M. Franks

Some evenings ago while the above named party and his favorite dog, Jack were out hunting, Jack seemed to be distressed, either in pursuit or being pursued by something which created some excitement on the part of the above named hunter, so that he at once dropped his famous double barrel into his hands ready for execution. So in a few moments he discovered the object coming his way; so without warning he fired the fatal shot, which entered the breast and shoulders of the young buck and he fell to the ground and expired without a word. From the best information we can get he owned no personal property, but his real estate had no bounds, and this being the case he was carried to the home of the hunter and dressed. He was found to be very fleshy, and the weather being warm it was thought he would not keep long without some chemical progress, so Mrs. Franks cooked him for breakfast, and he was fine you bet.

What is it that is older than its mother? Give the answer next week.

Has a cow got a cuido? Ask R. B. Gregory.

Some time ago our billy goat went into our sitting room, mounted the center table, took down the Bible and opened it as near the middle as possible, after which he began to re-adjust the wall paper. We admonished him at once that our house was not a den of thieves or paper D. Hangers.

R. M. F.

BITS OF BYPLAY.

Cam Wallace is always happy. In one of his happy moods the other day he was asked the question "why are you so happy?" He replied, "I got money. I don't owe anything. Christmas is coming on. Looking for Santa Claus. Things like that."

Something was said in these columns about Mr. Milton Babb. It was asserted that he was the only man who ever assessed Crittenden county single handed and alone. The RECORD wishes to correct this statement. One other assessor has performed this feat and he is none other than our present sheriff, Mr. James Fidelor Flanary. Mr. Flanary assessed this county in 1906 and did all the work himself. He rode a mouse colored mule named "Tol." The mule was a pacer which probably accounts for the ease with which Mr. Flanary did his work. He assessed the county in ninety-three days and nights. He rode in the country in the daytime and stalked the cities and villages at night. It might be noted that Mr. Flanary is an old bachelor of the worst type which may account for his ability to perform this task. Mr. Babb was a married man at the time he made his famous run and no doubt was worried and perplexed with the thoughts of and care for the little ones at home.

The story is told of a man who was always complaining about his lack of opportunities. One day he was attempting to remove his collar. The button was unusually obstinate. He tugged and fumed and fretted. Finally collar, button and neck-band all came together. It was a rude ending of quick patience. But it set the fellow to thinking. The result was the invention of the hinged collar-button! A fortune was made. But the significant fact—all the former years he spent in overlooking his opportunity.

It is told of a very prominent merchant of Marion that during his first trip to this place he landed from a boat at Weston and from there purposed to ride to Marion homeback. The horse was all ready and saddled and stood with its head toward the river. Mr. Prominent Merchant knew he was going away from the river, but knew very little about the running gears of a horse, so he mounted facing tailward. After due explanations he dismounted and remounted and rode on to Marion and has been here ever since.

A young man of color had been convicted of hen stealing. He had been tried in the court here in Marion and the jury said he must go over to Eddyville for a trip and to get acquainted with some of our state institutions. The sheriff landed with him at Princeton. While standing on the platform waiting for the train to pull out the express agent passed pulling a heavy truck loaded with coops of chickens. The sheriff with a twinkle in his eye asked his charge if he knew where they were going. "Don't know Boss maybe they are shipping them over to Eddyville for me."

Several years ago an old man slowly walked into the court house yard and mounted the steps at front. His hair was long and white. Removing his hat he bowed to the crowd in front and said,

"God moves in a mysterious way

His wanders to perform.
He plants his foot-steps on the say.
And rides upon the storm."

Do you know him?

Mr. Frank Loyd arrested him once and after the necessary and proper arrangements had been performed at police headquarters he confided confidentially to his friend Doan, "I tell you Jinney Frankie Mick Loyd is no friend of mine"

A certain local capitalist was asked why he did not go into some kind of business and thus realize a greater percent on his money. His reply was "Well I tell you it's hard to beat old eight per cent."

TWINKLES FROM MARION SCHOOL
BOBEY SPRITE.
The school is on a boom since old St. Nichols has made his appearance in town and fire-works are procurable.
The debate between Marion and Morganfield which was to take place on the 21st has been called off by Morganfield backing down. We pity a school that has no more backbone than they have.
The famous "Marion School Choir" is progressing splendidly under the management of the music teacher, Miss Woods.
While Miss Sallie Woods is not much on quantity, she is about the article when it comes to quality.
Miss Woods performed on the piano not long ago and crossed her hands. Whenever a piano player gets to the point where they can cross their hands while playing and never lose a note it is a sign that they have about climbed the height of musical knowledge.
Miss Florence Harris of the Fifth grade is quite ill this week. Her place is being filled by Miss Hilda Schwab. Miss Schwab seems to be very versatile. She is a good stenographer and typewriter.
The old school bell has been discarded and put upon exhibition in remembrance of past school days, by the High School.
The Eighth Grade are fixing for some big show-off in the near future and the tones of orators, reciters and readers can be heard at any time coming from that section of the building.
A pupil in one of the lower grades was asked, "What is a pumpkin?" He replied that it was a frost bitten watermelon.

The show on Monday last was excellent especially the parts of Miss Cook and Dr. Stilwell.
This school is noted for its Sunday School men visitors. We have had four with us in the last two weeks.
The eighth wonder of the world has manifested itself in this school. Prof. Kee has a mustache. The wonder is how can so young a boy raise so large a crop.
Uncle George forgot to fire up on Monday last and the temperature of the building would have put "liquid air" out of business.
The geology class of Prof. Kee's department have reached the point where they can tell the difference between coal and limestone rock. At this rate of progress they will be ready for a government job soon after the holidays.
The pupils of Miss Little Cook's room contemplate a fine time on Friday afternoon next. They are going to have a Christmas tree.
Prof. Kee leaves Friday to spend the holidays in a village down in "Sunny Tennessee."
I will close this letter of squibs with a little sermon for some of those who have lost heart in their school work. My text is:
HAVE COURAGE
Courage mixes and makes color for the blood. Gives health to unsteady fingers. Have courage.
Step with purposeful tread. You lead—let the other fellow. Have courage.
Be a Columbus sailing to an unnamed port. Be a Washington risking a nation's faith while treason biases. Be a Dewey steaming over Spanish mines right into the mouth of disaster. These men fed on courage breathed it. They won, so can you. Have courage.

A Miraculous Cure

The following statement by H. M.
Adams and wife, Henrietta, Pa., will interest parents and others. "A miraculous cure has taken place in our home.
Our child had eczema 5 years and was pronounced incurable, when we read about Electric Bitters, and concluded to try it. Before the second bottle was all taken we noticed a change for the better, and after taking 7 bottles he was completely cured." It's up-to-date blood medicine and body building
tonic. Guaranteed 50c and $1.00 at Haynes & Taylor.

KEEP YOUR DESK CLEAN.

Business Untidiness Sign of Lack of Order and Concentration.

"There's one piece of advice," said
the senior partner, "that I'd like to give every young man taking a business position with a desk attached to
it. It's this: Keep your desk clean. What I mean by having a desk clean is keeping everything possible off it except that which is related to the matter in hand. I've observed in my time a good many men in their offices, and I can say that with very few exceptions the real men of affairs are those who are free from clutter.

"With a lot of paper in front of
you, it's almost a certainty that somehow in the day you're going to be flustered and very likely it will be just when you want a clear head. The old idea that a mass of material
every whichway on the desk is a sign that a person is full of business is pretty well outworn. Such a collection not only indicates a lack
of order, but also a sign that nervousness may be expected from the man in the chair. What with filing
cabinets and other devices no excuse
can be offered nowadays for confusion.

"A well ordered desk means a well
ordered mind—a mind taking up one thing at a time and giving it the proper attention. It denotes regularity and concentrated, effective effort."

POINTING WAY TO SINNERS.

Preacher's Fervid Words of Warning
to His Flock.

The medley fell into an unusual
swinging rhythm; the humming rose
loud and louder, gathering and adding
to itself accidental suggestions; one impromptu phrase of music, which filled the passing words, was caught
up instantly; the congregation was swept away by a hysterical, rhythm-
ical, emotional tide; utterly strange
and new, never before heard, an air
sprang into being—refrain first, then
both refrain and line, one swift, bold,
strong voice leading on. Their wild emotions strangely stirred, the primitive congregation swept, full tide,
into such an air as one carries home
with him, rolling for days afterward,
in his ears.

"My dyin' hrederin, way yo' gwine
stan?" shouted the preacher. "Way
yo' gwine stan? wen dey tek de cub-
bah off'n hell, an' no wawteh noway?
Yo' all gwine come er-runnin' and er-
cryin' 'Way is muh crown of glory?
Wuh is muh long white robe? Wuh
is muh place? But fuh dem wut
ain't bin convuted dey ain't gwine
ter be no place! Oh, hrederin, way
will yo stan' een day day?"—John Bennett in the Atlantic.

A Fruitarian Diet.

A fruitarian diet consists of the fruit of trees like apples, oranges, bananas and olives, the fruits of bushes (like currants and raspberries), the fruit of plants (like strawberries and melons, lentils and beans and cucumbers), the fruits of grasses (like
wheat and barley and maize and oats),
the fruits of nut trees (from Siberia
to coconut), together with some
earth fruits (like potatoes), and a medium of vegetables and salads,
says the Washington Review. To these may be added butter, milk,
honey and cheese, although their production is not so free from risk of contamination and animal infection
as in the case with the products of
the vegetable kingdom and the world
of fruits. Grown under healthy conditions, with diseased specimens easy
to detect and remove, it is far more
possible to live healthily and well
upon a fruitarian dietary than upon
the products of the slaughter house.

"Victoria Soup."

It was Francatelli, the famous cook
of Queen Victoria in early Victorian
days, who used to observe casually,
when serving a certain soup: "This was the only soup the queen would ever eat while I had the honor of being to her majesty's service." Francatelli's recipe for what he called "Victoria soup," is said to produce a delicious and nourishing form of what,
in homely kitchenese, would be known as veal broth. To make it, simmer half a pound of pearl barley for two hours in three pints of good veal stock. When the barley is quite soft and dissolved, take out one-third of
it into a pan to keep hot, while the remainder is passed through a fine
colander. Then put the puree back into the whole barley, add half a pint of cream, season, reheat and serve. Mace, onions and cloves introduced into the stock before the
barley is added improve the flavor.

Glass Living Rooms.

Not only for invalids, but for people of good health, the glass room, or sun parlor, is an added blessing and
joy in every country house that possesses one. By sun parlor we do not mean the conventional conservatory
for plants; we mean a livable, comfortable room for members of the household, where sunshine is the principal attraction. Flowers and plants
will be found there, but only as an adjunct to the room, a decoration. Use the room for a breakfast room, a
lounging room or a den, as you will,
but—build it of glass. The object of the glass room is apparent. Regulate the temperature, protect yourself
from the cold blasts of wind, and you
may sit in the sunshine in your sun
parlor all the year round, nor do you need to travel to Florida or California
to sit on the piazza from October to March. Include your piazza—Country Life in America.

GOATS CLEAR BRUSH LAND.

Flock Quickly Makes Away with Tangle of Briars.

A flock of Angora goats was put on a rocky hillside that it was desired to have cleared and put into grass. It was such a tangle of brush
and briars that it was with difficulty
one could make a way through it.
The goats actually ate their way in until it was penetrated with paths in all directions. After the leaves within reach were eaten they would stand
on their hind feet with their fore-
feet in the branches and so eat the
leaves higher up, or, if the brush
was not too large, would throw their weight against and bend it to the ground, where others of the flock
would help strip it of its foliage. The leaves would come out again only to be eaten off, then sprouts would come from the roots to share the same fate, until at the end of the second summer everything in the shape of a brush not over six feet
tall, except the pines and laurel,
were completely killed and white clover was beginning to appear. These goats, with their long, curly white
fleeces, attracted more attention
than anything else on the place, but,
as can be imagined, they had to be
well fenced in for they would run
over a stone wall like dogs.

WHY THE BABY YELLED.

Its Loyal Mother Got Even With Two Grouchy Passengers.

Recently a wearied-looking little
mother, carrying a small baby, boarded a Rapid Transit-flyer at Broad and Chestnut streets, and took a seat next
to two men who were earnestly engaged in conversation, relates the Philadelphia Telegraph. Neither of the men was very handsome, and it must have required considerable nerve
on their part to hand out their photographs among their friends, unless
the pictures had been previously re-
touched with sandpaper.

In a few minutes the baby began to cry with a reliable yelp that could be heard above the din of the street gabble for half a block, and with a grouchy glance at the youngsters, one
of the men arose and peevishly re-
marked to his pal:

"I think we had better sit over here, Jim."

This ungallant act plainly embarrased the little mother, but she was equal to the occasion.

"It won't do a bit of good to change
your seats, gentlemen," said she, in a finely sarcastic voice. "The baby can see you quite as plainly over there as he could here."

No More Arguments for Him.

It was the blissful half-hour after dinner and a group of workmen were
beguiling the time with an argument
on some question or other.

An interesting deadlock had been reached when one of the men on the losing side turned to a mate, who had remained silent during the whole of the debate.

"Ere, Bill," he said, "you're pretty
good at a argyment. Wot's your opinion?"

"I ain't a-goin' to say," said Bill. "I threshed the matter out afore with Dick Grey."

"Ah!" said the other, artfully, hoping to entice him into the fray, "and
what did you arrive at?"

"Well, e-ventually," said Bill,
"Dick 'e arrived at the oprital an' I arrived at the perlice station."—Stray Stories.

Coal Mining in India.

All the coal of India is bituminous.
Some of it is hard and glossy, like Rock Springs, Wyo., coal. It sells for from $2.05 to $3.34 a ton. It only
costs fifty-five cents a ton to mine,
screen and load in the cars.

The coal fields now operated are in Bengal, the native states of Central India, and Hyderabad. India is first
among the coal producing dependencies of Great Britain, and its coal field
covers 25,000 square miles. The total output in 1905 was 7,762,779 tons. Indian coal supplied about 90 per cent of the amount.

India has abundant labor, capital,
and convenient water transportation to the sea. The hauls by rail are short
and comparatively inexpensive.

The consul general thinks that eventually India and not Japan will control
the coal market of the Eastern world.

Child's Pathetic Answer.

This happened in Minneapolis. A young lady agent of a savings institution handed a little girl one of the forms to fill out before making a deposit. One of the questions asked was "What is the occupation of your father?"

The little girl wrote "Drunkard" in answer to this.

"But that is no an occupation,"

said the young lady agent.

"It's all I ever saw him do," innocently replied the nine-year old tot.

That father ought to hire himself
out to stand behind a full fledged male
for about ten minutes.

Saturday Night Diversion.

In a London street a girl of 12 and a boy of 10 were playing a family
drama of "mother and father," and Lobby was being instructed in his role. "Now, Bob," said the girl, "you
just walk up ter ther corner an' wait
there till we tella yer to come. When agoin' ter git dinner ready, an' when we calla yer, yer ter come 'ome and
chuck the fings about." "Tut!" said Lobby. "Come 'ome, drunk do I? And why for?" "Why for, stoopid?" retorted the girl, with a glance at nu-
gled scorn and pity. "Ain't it Saturday!"

MINERALS OF ILLINOIS

ANNUAL PRODUCTION IS VALUED
AT $5,000,000.

Coal Easily Meets List—Clay Products
and Limestone Next in Importance According to Figures
of Geologist.

Chicago.—The annual production of the mineral wealth of Illinois has been compiled by the state and government
geological surveys. It has been found that in 1905 the state produced a total of $5,000,000 in minerals. Of this $39,764,000 was coal.

Clay products, and limestone come next to coal in importance. Other important products are: home minerals are sandstone, Portland cement,
natural rock cement, fluorapatite, mineral spring water, spelter, lead ore,
glass sand and molding sand.

One startling thing discovered in all this research, according to E. H.
Van Horn, in the Mining World, is
the decrease in the amount of spring
water sold. At one time there was water to the amount of $3,038,000
sold from springs in Illinois. In 1905
this dropped to $44,000. The explanation is that resorts have been founded at the different springs and the water is used for bathing purposes
and not sold in the market.

The production of Portland cement,
which is becoming one of the most important factors in building, is increasing. On this question Mr. Van Horn says:

"The output of Portland cement for 1905 was 1,545,000 barrels, valued at $1,741,150. In 1904 1,326,704 barrels,
with a value of $1,449,114, were produced. The natural rock cement was valued at $166,555 in 1905, as compared with $113,000 in 1904. There are four concerns manufacturing
Portland cement only, three manufacturing natural rock cement and one
making both Portland and slag
cement. The output of slag cement
is included with the figures for the natural rock cement. A new Portland cement plant is building at Dixon, Ill."

Lead mines in the state are not important, but the fact that this metal
is produced is interesting. The forthcoming report will say on this point:

"A small amount of lead ore is mined in northwestern Illinois, and a little of it is reduced in a local smelter near Galena. The bulk of the lead smelted in the state, however, comes from Alton, where the Federal Lead company has a large modern plant. It is run mainly on ores from Missouri, particularly the southeastern part of the state. Since there is only the one producer it is impracticable to give the output for Illinois separately."

The increase in Illinois coal production from 1833 to the present year
is graphically illustrated in a bulletin
of the state survey, which says: "In the last 25 years the production of the state has increased 519 per cent.
If the same rate of increase continues for another quarter of a century
the annual production then will be approximately 135,000,000 short tons.
The production for the last ten years
has increased at an even more rapid rate, amounting to 113 per cent."

"At this rate a production of 80,
000,000 tons will be reached in ten years, or approximately 280,000,000 tons in 25 years. This is about the amount of bituminous coal now mined
and sold in the whole of the United States. It is impossible to say what the future rate of increase will in fact
be, but these figures are at least certain possibilities and the production
undoubtedly will increase rapidly for many years to come."

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS GROW.

Interstate Commerce Commission Reports Increase in Casualties.

Washington.—Eighteen thousand
persons were killed, crippled and otherwise injured in railroad accidents
during the period ending March 31, 1906. These are the figures given out in the quarterly casualty report of the interstate commerce commission.
They show that 17 more were killed
in the first quarter of 1906 than in the last period of 1905 and that 52 more were injured. The report severely criticizes the careless American disregard of human life and urges the substitution of electricity for men in the management and control of trains.

Of the total number of casualties
during the period covered by the report 1,126 were killed and 17,170 injured.

These were caused by 3,490 accidents, including 1,821 collisions and 1,569 derailments. The money damage amounted to $2,924,785.

287,113 Pupils in Chicago.

Chicago.—In the annual report compiled by Secretary Larson, of the board of education, it is shown that the total enrollment of children in the public schools of the city for the year ending June 30, 1906, was 287, 113. This is an increase of 4,767 over the enrollment in 1905, and, according to Secretary Larson, is a sign of the increasing population of the city.

Yankees to Build Big Bridge.

London.—The contract for the building of a big bridge in Egypt has been secured by an American firm, the Cleveland Bridge and Engineering company. The bridge is to be of the rolling elevator type, and is for the harbor of Port Sudan. It will be the second largest of the kind in the world.

There's a Hill at Bowie, Tex., that's twice as big as last year. This wonder is W. L. Hill, who from a weight of 90 pounds has grown to over 180. He says: "I suffered with a terrible cough,
and doctors gave me up to die of consumption. I was reduced to 90 pounds
when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Cough's
and colds. Now after taking 12 bottles,
I have more than doubled in weight and am completely cured." Only sure

Republican Campaign Text-Book

A departure has been made in the Republican Campaign Text-Book just issued, in that its contents are wholly devoted to live issues; and these are
treated in the briefest possible way,
yet comprehensively enough to include
all necessary facts and figures.

First, there is a general statement of the issues of 1906, followed by a brief
review of Republican legislation in general and the work of the Fifty-ninth Congress in particular. The Railroad Rate Law, Pure Food Law, Free
Alcohol Law, Employers' Liability
Law and the Meat Inspection portion of the Agricultural Appropriation Law
are given in full, as is Chairman Taylor's clear explanation of the appropriations.

The Labor question is next fully presented, followed by Representative Watson's exposition of Anti-Trust proceedings. About one hundred pages
are given to the Tariff, Agriculture
and Manufactures, and the tables
showing the various phases of industrial activity. Among other subjects treated under the tariff are:

Protection and Free Trade,
Customs Revenue,
Foreign Commerce,
Home Market and Internal Trade,
Wages and Prices,
Export Discounts,
Reciprocity,
Free Hides,
Revision, etc., etc.

Some half hundred tables give official
and authoritative figures down to the latest possible date. The work of the president and administration is then briefly presented, the condition and
status of the Philippines, the Panama Canal, the Navy, Postal Service, Irrigation, etc., etc.

The President's letter to Representative Watson concludes the work, which has a copious index of over a dozen
pages.

Scattered throughout the book are quotations from President Roosevelt and other Republican leaders. Among these is the extract from Senator Hanna's speech where he used the
"stand pat" expression, it being the only instance in the Text-Book where the words "stand pat" are used. A page is given to Mr. Bryan and his view, with the comments of the New York World. A so-called "Prosperity Postscript" is added, giving treasury
conditions, trade reports, etc., down to August 1.

For the first time in a political campaign, the Text-Book will have a general circulation, as together with other literature, it will be sent on receipt of one dollar by John C. Everman, Assistant Treasurer, 1133 Broadway, New York.

Robbing Yourself

That is just what you are
doing when you fail to get regular and sufficient sleep. Your body requires this unconscious
period for repair work; without it your nerve energy becomes exhausted, and you are tired, worn-out, nervous, ex-
citable; have headache, neuralgia, indigestion, poor appetite, or other ailments caused by a lack of nerve force. Make it your business to sleep. If you are restless, take
Dr. Miles' Nervine: it soothes
and strengthens the nerves,
and brings sweet, refreshing,
life-giving sleep, and gives the
organs power to work naturally. Try it to-day.

"I had a severe spell of fever, which left me in a very weak condition and very nervous. I had severe spasms of headache and neuralgia, and could sleep but very little. Every effort that was made to recover my strength was
of no avail until I began taking Dr.
Miles' Restorative Nervine. After I commenced to take the Nervine my sleep was profound and restful, and
the pain in my head, as well as the neuralgia pains, left me to a certain extent and I grew gradually better."

American Prisoner in China Receives Cold Welcome.

When the Chinese day watchman at the American consulate went his rounds the other morning he discovered that one of the cells that should have contained a prisoner was empty. Door and window were intact, and there was no sign to show how the occupant of the cell—C. S. Buttrick—had effected his escape. Buttrick was serving a sentence of three years' imprisonment on a charge of embezzlement, which was heard at Tien-tsin. The night watchman, who was at first suspected of connivance in the escape, returned to his post at seven p. m. as usual. He told a perfectly straightforward story. He came on duty, he said, as usual, at seven o'clock the preceding evening. Buttrick was then out for his daily walk, but returning at about nine p. m. called for a lantern and then retired to his cell. The watchman saw nothing more of him, and when he left at seven a. m. he placed the keys, as usual, on a table where the day watchman would know where to find them. Another version is that when Buttrick returned from his evening walk he was unable to get into the consulate. He knocked and rang for some time without any response, and finally, in high dudgeon at the inhospitality of the consulate, went elsewhere for his night's lodging. Our informant adds that he would not be surprised if Buttrick turned up some day to lodge a complaint against the American authorities for locking him out in this inhuman manner.—North China News.

DON'T JOKE IN ENGLAND.

Warning in the Fate of a Paragraph About Famous "Big Ben."

The worst of the sportive style in news writing is that it sometimes leads to misunderstanding. The London correspondent of a Manchester paper sent the other day a humorous account of the renewing of the hands of the great clock of parliament. It ran thus:

"A well-known character, who has lived in Westminster all his life and is familiarly known to many Londoners as 'Ben,' underwent a serious operation this morning.

"As Westminster hospital was too full to allow of him having a bed, the operation was carried out by two doctors in the open air and in the presence of a large crowd.

"Both of Ben's hands were taken off—successfully and rapidly. A new pair will be provided for him."

This seemed a curious hint by no means an amusing piece of intelligence to the Manchester staff of the paper. They put it in a prominent position among the day's painful occurrences, next to a paragraph headed "Maniac Kills Seven," and gave it the following headline:

OPERATION IN THE OPEN AIR.
Big London Crowd Watched Man's Hands Taken Off.

Which proved that it is, even in these frivolous times, still possible to be too funny.—London News.

He Excepted the Captain.

Passing the pantry of his boat one day, Capt. Birch of Gloucester, Mass., overheard one of the cabin boys indulging in animadversions on the officers and crew. He turned a very severe countenance upon the boy and said: "Young man, hereafter when you have anything to say about anyone about the boat, please except the captain."

A few days later, when the captain happened to be on deck, the same cabin boy carried past him a dish of food prepared for the table, and a pet hog running between the boy's legs upset him, scattering the food.

Picking himself up, with a most rueful countenance, the boy commenced berating the hog. "You are the miserablest hog I ever seen," he began, when, catching a view of the old man, and remembering his injunction, he added, "except the captain."

The boy has had a secure berth on Capt. Birch's boat ever since.

"Uncle John's" Chicken Deal.

Down in South China, Me., was a good old Quaker, Uncle John Jones, whom everyone knew and respected. A slight defect in his speech added interest to his remarks. Uncle John raised poultry along with the other products of his farm. One morning he discovered that a number of his chickens were missing. Having his suspicions as to who the thief might be, he lay low, and finally recovered his loss.

Upon his next visit to the corner grocery store the loungers were interested to know how he recovered them. Uncle John said: "I went to that fellow for the third and last time, and told him to bring back my chickens, and he brought back chickens that I had and chickens that I never knew I had."

Crane Fled From 13.

Actors are notoriously superstitious, and W. H. Crane is no exception. One day, when he found himself in room 13 at a hotel, he immediately demanded that he be transferred.

"But," expostulated the clerk, "this is the best room in the house. It's a room, too, in which many eminent men have lodged. Why, your old friend John T. Raymond often occupied it."

"Indeed," raved Crane, somewhat mollified, "dear John! and he really stayed here, sir?"

"Yes, sir, he died in this very room."

Crane fled to another hotel.

Encouraging the Burley Growers

Editor Farmers Home Journal:

I saw in a recent issue of your paper that the Burley growers will organize very soon, and I write to urge the Burley growers all over the section to organize and pool their tobacco and demand better prices. If every Burley grower will go into this organization and pool his tobacco the price will at once advance from three to five dollars per hundred pounds, but should enough of the growers remain out and sell to the trust to supply their present wants then it will be a drag. I can't see for my life why one farmer will help the trust to rob the other. The Burley men are now organizing right, they will find good results growing out of their present organization, and I hope every farmer will join the organization and burn the bridges behind them. Farmers must pool not only their tobacco but their wheat, corn and stock, and sell as near as they can to the consumer. There is going to be hard fight to down the tobacco growers. The trust will spend millions to keep the farmers disorganized, but from the signs of the times the farmers will win. There is over a million of farmers now organized, and the good works are going on rapidly. In one or two years more the farmers in the great Western States will absolutely control their grain crops. They own the elevators that store over half of their grain crop now. The Southern cotton growers will soon be thoroughly organized. They are now pooling their cotton and are getting good prices for it. And now it is up to the Middle States, and they will have to organize in self-defense, and why not every farmer go in now and thoroughly test the pooling business. You must see by this time that you must do something or be run over by the band wagon.

The entire black patch is now controlled by the different associations. The Dark Protective Tobacco Association controls what is known as the Regle types. The Henderson Stemming District Tobacco Association controls the English export tobacco, and the American Society of Equity controls what is known as the Green River District which is of a dark type but unfired, that is mostly used by the manufacturers of this country. There are only two small counties in all of the dark tobacco belt that are not closely organized. They are Crittenden and Livingston counties, and before another crop is raised the farmers of these two will be thoroughly organized. And I will say to my Burley friends if they expect to get into the band wagon they will have to hurry up, for in less than two years the different tobacco associations in the dark tobacco section will be selling every hoghead of tobacco raised in the dark belt, and Virginia will be doing the same thing. Notwithstanding my friend, Charley Harfield and friend Ingram of the Clarksville Leaf Chronicle, says Mr. Ewing and his committee will knock the bottom out of the association long before that time, but dark tobacco men pay no attention to these gentlemen. They have only let a bird go and do not just exactly know how to trap the bird again, and they have fallen out with all creation, because the association people will not help them to cage the bird again, at least that is the way it looks to one at a distance.

Yours in the faith,

A. H. CARDIN.

Hertzian Waves at Sea.

A German scientist has invented an automatic mechanism for preventing collisions at sea, based upon the use of Hertzian waves. Miniature wireless telegraphy plants are to be installed on vessels, effective within a thousand yards radius. Two vessels fitted with apparatus approaching each other in a fog and with the mechanism set would at 1,000 yards give mutual and automatic warning by acting upon each other's signal, which would, in its turn automatically stop the engines.

Reason for Madness.

Richard Mansfield at a dinner party in New York contributed an anecdote to the old question of the sanity of Hamlet.

"One morning in the west," he said, "I met a young friend of mine and asked him where he had been the night before."

"I went," my young friend replied, "to see So-and-so's Hamlet."

"Aha, did you?" said I. "Now, tell me—do you think Hamlet was mad?"

"I certainly do," said he. "There wasn't $100 in the house."

Leva.

"Yes," said the Chicago girl, "I'm engaged to Mr. Rocks. It was really hard to decide because I like Mr. Bul-Jon quite as well and they're equally wealthy."

"What decided the thing?" asked her friend.

"Well, Mr. Rocks promised me the most alimony if such a thing should become necessary."

Wind Cuts Out a Car.

A heavy freight car, the sixth from a caboose, on the Northwestern train near Scarville station, a short distance north of Mason City, Ia., was blown from the rails by a high wind, the drawbars being pulled out. The train was moving at the time, and no other cars were affected by the storm. No serious damage was done in the country.

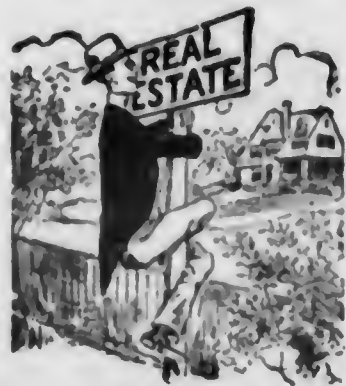

Unflattering.

"Wonder why it's so easy for a fellow to get engaged at a summer resort?"

"Ever look into one of these summer hotel mirrors?"

Yes.

"Well, when a girl sees herself in one of those, she's ready to accept almost anybody."—Cleveland Leader.

Soldier's Letter

Dear Sir and Readers: I thought probably you might be interested in Uncle Sam's new deep water harbor and port on the Gulf of Mexico, and as a former Kentuckian, I write for the benefit of my friends to tell them a part for I could not tell the whole of the wonderful prospects and opportunities in this "California of the South" at Gulfport, Miss.

As Kentuckians we always have in and out of season, exploited our native state and she is hard to bait, but were you to drop down into this blooming country, where it is springtime all the winter, and the summer's heat is tempered with the healthful and cooling gulf breeze, where the flowers bloom perennially and early vegetables and fruits ripen so soon as to be first (and at the highest prices in the northwestern and western markets) you might reach the conclusion that southern Mississippi was the proverbial "Goda country." For instance had Missouri's great peach crop prospects 40,000,000 trees been planted here they would be worth about 60 per cent more. Along the Gulf & Ship Island R. R. from Jackson to Gulfport are the most productive lands, the finest climate and as beautiful a country as ever was seen. From the native grasses and wide range allowed by the large companies that own the pine tracts I would think this to be also one of the profitable stock raising countries in the world for the reason that there would be necessary no winter feeding and the cattle would keep themselves.

Farmers especially truck and fruit farmers are rapidly pouring into this country about Wiggins, a prosperous town of about 3,000 inhabitants, where is one of the many and mammoth lumber plants, one mill alone cutting 200,000 per day. This company offers remuneration labor to all who wish to settle on the lands and in a talk with J. W. Bauley, who is immigration agent for the Gulf and Ship Island R. R. with headquarters at Gulfport, he told me they were permitting settlers to purchased these lands in 40 acre tracts by paying, say $50 cash, balance $12.50 per month—selling the lands at only $12.50 per acre. This whole plan and low rate is made merely to settle the territory through which this "vest pocket line" runs, from Jackson to Gulfport. Farmers on these tracts are making from $200 to $500 to the acre, raising sugar cane potatoes, berries, fruits, etc., and cotton raised on these lands took first prize at the Jackson Exposition. Capt. Bauley will gladly give any information desired along these lines.

As to Gulfport it will undoubtedly become one of the leading coast cities of the country as its harbor and channels are superior to Mobile and New Orleans and deep water only seven miles away as against 40 for Mobile and 110 for pier first constructed by Capt. J. I. Jones is now in prospect, the government is completing the work of deepening the big channel to deep water, another railroad is coming in, and soon the cities will have connection with all the great markets. In the harbor side hundreds of ships come to load lumber which is carried in by the railroads and loaded direct from car to ship, from what is now the largest tracts of yellow pine in the country.

Property is high and jumps over night and the farming section at Wiggins will soon command double the prevailing prices. The climate is delightful, healthful and vigorous and I would advise those who want to escape rigors, snow and sleet not to mention mud of Kentucky winters, to come to the California of the South, where there is work for all, health, wealth and opportunities galore, Gulfport, Miss.
